HOW WE WORK · ORDER ROUTE

How a JBL Mesh Belt Order Runs: From Inquiry to Pick-up

Eight steps, and the record you receive at each one — from your first drawing to the Pick-up Notice.

Review · quotation · PI · trial section · Thursday updates · checks · shipping

Eight steps from inquiry to pick-up

Each step ends with a record you can check.

1 Inquiry

Drawing, photos or old-belt readings

2 Review

Fit dimensions read and confirmed with you

3 Quotation

Estimated price, then formal price

4 PI + 30%

Same specification; deposit starts production

5 Trial section

When agreed: you approve it first

6 Production

A progress update every Thursday

7 Checks + 70%

Photos and video, then the balance

8 Shipping

Notices until pick-up

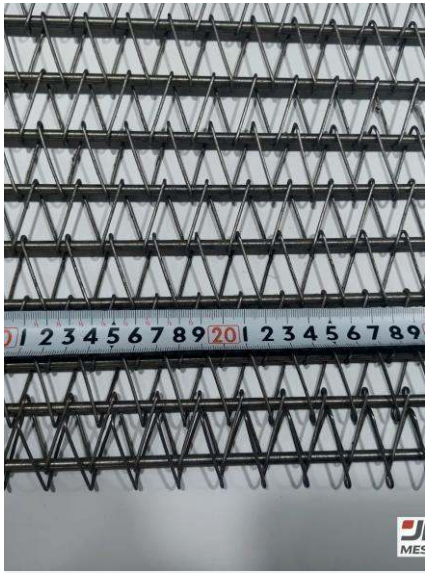

Lead time depends on belt type, size, material and quantity, and is confirmed in writing in each quotation.

Send what you have

A drawing, or the old belt with a tape beside it.

The buyer's old belt, photographed with a tape

1. Drawing or old-belt photos
   With a tape or caliper in the photo.
2. Readings
   Pitch, rod, wire and width, if you have them.
3. Sprockets
   Supplied with the belt, or not.
4. Length and port
   Total length and destination.
5. Your drawings
   Used only for your project.

Why the order runs in these steps

Each step answers a question the one before it cannot.

Malaysia: trial section joined to the original

Readings before the price	An old belt shows today's condition; fit is read, not guessed
A section approved first	Dimensions are proved on a short length, not on the whole belt
Joined to the original	Pitch and links line up across the joint
Tests before packing	Readings show size; turn and sprocket tests show how it runs
Readings on the bulk belt	Read the same way as the approved section

Turn test, full circle

Sprocket run on the belt

Questions about the order route

Short answers, with the step pages.

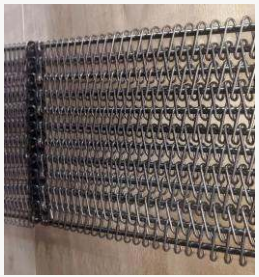

Can I skip the trial section?

Yes. A trial section is used only when agreed.

When is the lead time fixed?

It is confirmed in writing in each quotation.

Who joins the belt on site?

Send photos of both ends; we review them with you.

When do updates stop?

When the goods are collected at the destination.
